Summer's Heat

In mid-afternoon's summer heat

The shade of Gramma's front porch

invites me to relax

The rusty old swing is just the right place to almost nap

As Gramma tells stories of when Daddy was little

And lets me snuggle against her red-checked apron and smell

the aroma

of fresh-canned preserves

that lingers on her fingertips.

1. Why does the grandchild snuggle?
- A. to get out of the shade
  - B. to gently wake Gramma
  - C. to hear the sound of the rusty swing

A Trip to the Mountains

The mountains rise into the sky

Like friendly giants to my eye.

Higher and higher goes the road

And all around green trees grow.

There is no noise or smog or cars

To interrupt the peace.

The birds are singing away far

The lessons they want to teach.

They teach us that these hills of ours

Are precious gifts to keep.

And all the trees that stand like towers

Are their homes when they go to sleep.

The mountains are a special place

To meet nature face to face.

I'm happy every time I'm here

To have this special place so near.

Guardian

Tina decided to buy a dog to protect her house. First, she went to a dog show to look at different kinds of dogs. The people at the dog show recommended several types. She looked at Dobermans, chows, and German shepherds. Then Tina went to several pet stores and asked for more information. After much thought, Tina got a German shepherd.

Before she brought her new pet home, Tina purchased a large dog bed. She also got several toys, a collar and leash, and some food. Within the first week, Tina took her new dog, Guardian, to a veterinarian. The vet started the shots that new puppies need. When Guardian was six months old, Tina put him in obedience school. Tina now has a great pet and a guard dog all in one.
